(a) a reasonably prudent person, whose means were such that the cost of seeking such services at his or her own expense, while representing a financial obstacle to him or her would not be such as to impose undue hardship upon him or her, would be likely to seek such services in such circumstances at his or her own expense, and

(b) a solicitor or barrister acting reasonably would be likely to advise him or her to obtain such services at his or her own expense.

Legal advice. 25.—In this Act, subject to section 26 (4), legal advice" means any oral or written advice given by a solicitor of the Board or by a solicitor or barrister engaged by the Board for that purpose under section 11—

(a) on the application of the law of the State to any particular circumstances which have arisen in relation to the person seeking the advice, and

(b) as to any steps which that person might appropriately take having regard to the application of the law of the State to those circumstances, and includes any assistance given by such a solicitor or barrister, to any person in taking any such steps as are referred to in paragraph (b), whether by assisting a person in taking any such steps on his or her own behalf or taking any such steps (other than the institution or conduct, including defence, of civil proceedings) on the person's behalf.

Criteria for obtaining legal advice. 26.—(1) Subject to sections 24 and 29 and to the other provisions of this section and to regulations (if any) made under section 37, the Board shall grant legal advice under this section to an applicant if, in the opinion of the Board, the applicant satisfies the criteria in respect of financial eligibility specified in section 29 and in such regulations (if any) as aforesaid.

(2) Subject to subsection (3), a person shall not qualify for legal advice in respect of—

(a) a criminal law matter unless the advice sought concerns the procedure by which legal aid may be obtained under the Criminal Justice (Legal Aid) Act, 1962 , in which case he or she shall qualify for such legal advice free of any contribution;

(b) the matters referred to in section 28 (9) (a);

(c) a matter concerning which the Board considers it would be possible for the person, without hardship, to obtain the appropriate advice without obtaining legal advice under this Act.

(3) Notwithstanding subsection (2) (and subject to the other provisions of this Act)—

(a) a person shall qualify for legal advice in respect of a conveyancing matter connected to a matter in which legal aid or advice has already been given, and

(4) Where a person would qualify for legal advice, but for the fact that the advice sought concerns the application of the law of another State, such person shall be entitled to obtain such guidance or assistance in relation to the matter as the Board deems appropriate.

(5) Where a person obtains legal advice and subsequently obtains legal aid in connection with the same matter, the legal services provided will be deemed to be legal aid and all the conditions applying to legal aid, including the level of any contributions payable under section 29 by a person in receipt of legal aid, will apply, save that the level of any such contribution shall be reduced by any amount previously paid for legal advice in connection with such matter.

(6) The Board may require a person to whom it is granting legal advice to comply with such requirements as it reasonably considers expedient to enable it to satisfy itself that it is reasonable for the person to continue to receive legal advice.

(7) The Board may cease to grant legal advice under this section to a person where it considers that it is no longer reasonable for the person to continue to receive it and, in particular, where the person no longer satisfies the requirements in respect of financial eligibility specified in section 29 and in regulations under section 37.

Legal aid. 27 .—(1) In this Act "legal aid" means representation by a solicitor of the Board, or a solicitor or barrister engaged by the Board under section 11, in any civil proceedings to which this section applies and includes all such assistance as is usually given by a solicitor and, where appropriate, barrister in contemplation of, ancillary to or in connection with, such proceedings, whether for the purposes of arriving at or giving effect to any settlement in the proceedings or otherwise.

(2) This section applies to all civil proceedings other than those relating to designated matters in respect of which there is not for the time being an order in force under subsection (10) of section 28—

(a) conducted in the District Court, the Circuit Court, the High Court or the Supreme Court, or

(b) conducted in any court or before any tribunal for the time being prescribed by the Minister, with the consent of the Minister for Finance, by order under this section, including proceedings arising out of or connected with such proceedings conducted before an officer of such court or tribunal, by its direction and proceedings under Article 177 of the Treaty establishing the European Economic Community, signed at Rome on the 25th day of March, 1957.

Criteria for obtaining legal aid. 28.—(1) A person shall not be granted legal aid unless the person is granted a legal aid certificate under this section in respect of the legal aid sought.

(2) Subject to sections 24 and 29 and the other provisions of this section and to regulations (if any) made under section 37, the Board shall grant a legal aid certificate under this section to a person if, in the opinion of the Board—

(a) the applicant satisfies the criteria in respect of financial eligibility specified in section 29,

(b) the applicant has as a matter of law reasonable grounds for instituting, defending, or, as may be the case, being a party to, the proceedings the subject matter of the application,

(c) the applicant is reasonably likely to be successful in the proceedings, assuming that the facts put forward by him or her in relation to the proceedings are proved before the court or tribunal concerned,

(d) the proceedings the subject matter of the application are the most satisfactory means (having regard to all the circumstances of the case, including the probable cost to the applicant) by which the result sought by the applicant or a more satisfactory one, may be achieved, and

(e) having regard to all the circumstances of the case (including the probable cost to the Board, measured against the likely benefit to the applicant) it is reasonable to grant it.

(3) Where the proceedings the subject matter of the application under this section concern the welfare of (including the custody of or access to) a child, paragraphs (c) and (e) of subsection (2) shall not apply.

(4) Notwithstanding subsection (2), the Board may refuse to grant a legal aid certificate if it is of the opinion that—

(a) the applicant may obtain the cost of the proceedings the subject matter of the application from, or be provided with legal representation by, a body or association of which he or she is a member or any other source,

(b) the applicant has on a previous occasion obtained legal aid or advice within the meaning of the Scheme or under this Act in respect of another matter and has, without reasonable explanation, failed to comply with the terms on which such legal aid or advice was granted,

(c) the cost to the applicant of engaging a solicitor and, where necessary, a barrister to represent him or her in the proceedings without legal aid would be less than the contribution payable by him or her under section 29 and regulations (if any) under section 37,

(d) such information as is reasonably required by the Board from the applicant to enable it to make a decision on whether to grant a legal aid certificate or not has not been provided by him or her, or

(e) due to the act, omission or neglect of the applicant any regulation under section 37 cannot be complied with in respect of the application.

(5) Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the Board shall grant a legal aid certificate to a person—

(a) where the State is, by virtue of an international instrument, under an obligation to provide civil legal aid to the person:

Provided that the person shall, before being granted such certificate, comply with such requirements (if any) as are specified in the international instrument and relate to him or her,

(b) where the Central Authority in the State, within the meaning of the Child Abduction and Enforcement of Custody Orders Act, 1991 , is under an obligation to provide assistance to the person under the said Act of 1991, for the purpose of being provided with such assistance, or

(c) where the Central Authority, within the meaning of the Maintenance Act, 1994 , is under an obligation to provide assistance to the person under the said Act of 1994, for the purpose of being provided with such assistance.

(6) The Board may require a person to whom it has granted a legal aid certificate to comply with such requirements as it reasonably considers expedient to enable it to satisfy itself that it is reasonable for the person to continue to receive legal aid.

(7) The Board may revoke a legal aid certificate granted to a person under this section where it considers that it is no longer reasonable for the person to continue to receive legal aid and, in particular, where the person no longer satisfies the requirements in respect of financial eligibility specified in section 29 and in regulations under section 37.

(8) Notwithstanding subsection (2), the Board shall not grant a legal aid certificate in respect of proceedings in a court other than the lowest court having jurisdiction in the matter:

Provided that the Board may grant a legal aid certificate to an applicant who, by virtue of any other party to the proceedings, is obliged to take, defend or be a party to the proceedings in a higher court.

(9) (a) Subject to any order made under subsection (10) and to the other provisions of this subsection, legal aid shall not be granted by the Board in respect of any of the following matters (referred to in this Act as "designated matters"):

(i) defamation;

(ii) disputes concerning rights and interests in or over land;

(iii) civil matters within the jurisdiction of the District Court (Small Claims Procedure) Rules, 1993;

(iv) licensing;

(v) conveyancing;

(vi) election petitions;

(vii) a matter as respects which the application for legal aid is made in a representative, fiduciary or official capacity and the Board, having regard to any source from which the applicant is or may be entitled to be indemnified in respect of the costs of the proceedings concerned and any resources of the persons who would be likely to benefit from a successful outcome of the proceedings for the applicant, is of opinion that legal aid should not be granted;

(viii) a matter the proceedings as respects which, in the opinion of the Board, are brought or to be brought by the applicant as a member of and by arrangement with a group of persons for the purpose of establishing a precedent in the determination of a point of law, or any other question, in which the members of the group have an interest;

(ix) any other matter as respects which the application for legal aid is made by or on behalf of a person who is a member, and acting on behalf, of a group of persons having the same interest in the proceedings concerned.

(b) The making of a counterclaim for defamation in proceedings for which a legal aid certificate may otherwise be granted by the Board will not of itself disqualify the defendant to the counterclaim from obtaining such a certificate in respect of those proceedings.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) and subject to the other provisions of this Act, legal aid may be granted—

(i) in respect of proceedings under the Landlord and Tenant Acts, 1967 to 1994 (in so far as they relate to residential property), the Married Women's Status Act, 1957 , the Rent Restrictions Acts, 1960 and 1967, the Family Home Protection Act, 1976 , the Family Law Act, 1981 , or proceedings arising out of a dispute between spouses as to the title to or possession of any property;

(ii) in respect of proceedings arising out of a dispute as to the title to or possession of any property—

(I) between two persons as respects whom an agreement to marry one another is in force or who are living together as man and wife but are not married to each other, or

(II) between two persons as respects whom an agreement to marry one another has been terminated or who, having lived together as man and wife without being married to each other, have ceased to live together as man and wife, where either or both of them had title to or possession of the property at a time when the agreement to marry was in force or, as the case may be, they were living together as man and wife;

(iii) where a subject matter of the dispute is the applicant's home (or what would be the applicant's home but for the dispute) and the Board considers that the applicant—

(I) suffers from an infirmity of mind or body due to old age or to other circumstances, or

(II) may have been subjected to duress, undue influence or fraud in the matter, and that a refusal to grant legal aid would cause hardship to the applicant;

(iv) in connection with the preparation of an assent, if the Board is satisfied that the assent relates to the applicant's home and where—

(I) a grant of representation has been taken out on behalf of the applicant, or

(II) the applicant had taken out a personal grant of representation,

and that a refusal to grant legal aid would cause hardship to the applicant;

(v) in respect of licensing matters, provided that the Board is satisfied that the granting of the licence the subject matter of the dispute would cause hardship to the applicant;

(vi) in respect of a conveyancing matter connected to a matter in which legal aid or advice has already been granted.

(d) An application for a legal aid certificate shall not be refused by reason only of the fact that a successful outcome to the proceedings for the applicant would benefit persons other than the applicant.

(10) The Minister may, with the consent of the Minister for Finance, by order disapply subsection (9) from any matter to which that subsection, for the time being applies and, if the Minister makes an order under this subsection, then any matter referred to in the order shall, for so long as the order is in force, cease to be a designated matter for the purpose of this Act, and the provisions of this Act relating to designated matters shall accordingly cease to apply to the matter so referred to in the order.

(11) In this section, "child" means a person who is under the age of 18 years, other than a person who is or has been married.

Financial eligibility and contributions towards cost of legal aid and advice. 29 .—(1) Subject to sections 24, 26 and 28 and the other provisions of this section, a person shall not qualify for legal aid or advice unless he or she—

(a) satisfies the requirements in respect of financial eligibility specified in this section, and in regulations under section 37, and

(b) pays to the Board a contribution towards the cost of providing the legal aid or advice determined in accordance with regulations under section 37.

(2) The Board may, in accordance with regulations under section 37, provide legal aid or advice to an applicant without reference to his or her financial resources and may waive any contribution payable pursuant to this section and to any other regulations under section 37 or may accept a lower contribution.

(3) An applicant's financial eligibility shall be assessed by reference to the applicant's disposable income and, where appropriate, disposable capital and the contribution payable by the applicant pursuant to subsection (1) (b) shall be assessed by reference to the applicant's disposable income and, where appropriate, disposable capital, as prescribed by the Minister by regulations under section 37.

(4) Subject to subsection (2), an applicant whose disposable income exceeds the amount prescribed by the Minister by regulations under section 37 shall not be eligible to obtain legal aid or advice.

(5) Subject to subsection (2), an applicant whose disposable capital exceeds the amount prescribed by the Minister by regulations under section 37 shall not be eligible to obtain legal aid or advice.

(6) If, in the opinion of the Board, the behaviour of the person applying for or in receipt of legal aid or advice is such that the costs of providing the legal aid or advice concerned are likely to be increased unnecessarily, the Board may, after notifying the person of its intention so to do—

(a) in the case of a person applying for legal aid or advice, refuse to grant such legal aid or advice or increase the amount of the contribution which would otherwise be payable by the person under this section,

(b) in the case of a person in receipt of legal aid, revoke the legal aid certificate or increase the amount of the contribution payable by the person under this section, and

(c) in the case of a person in receipt of legal advice, cease to grant such legal advice or increase the amount of the contribution which would otherwise be payable by the person under this section.

(7) If, in the opinion of the Board, an applicant, with intent to reduce his or her disposable income or disposable capital, has directly or indirectly deprived himself or herself of any resources for the purpose of qualifying for legal aid or advice under this Act, the resources of which he or she has so deprived himself or herself will be treated as part of his or her resources.

(8) In this section—

"capital", in relation to an applicant, means the value of every resource of a capital nature and shall include such matters as may be specified by the Minister in regulations under section 37 (2) (c);

"disposable capital", in relation to an applicant, means the amount of his or her capital after making such deductions and allowances as may be specified by the Minister in regulations under section 37 (2) (c);

"disposable income", in relation to an applicant, means his or her income after making such deductions and allowances as may be specified by the Minister in regulations under section 37 (2) (c); and

"income", in relation to an applicant, means the income which he or she may reasonably expect to receive from all sources during the year succeeding the date of application but shall, in the absence of what the Board considers to be a satisfactory means for ascertaining it, be taken to be the income actually received during the year immediately preceding the date of application and shall include such matters as may be specified by the Minister in regulations under section 37 (2) (c) or such income as is ascertained by the Board to be the income in accordance with regulations under section 37 (2) (c).

Location of law centres and provision of legal aid and advice. 30.—(1) The Board may make legal aid and advice available through centres, to be known as law centres, established by it under this section with the consent of the Minister or established or used by the former Board for the provision of services under the Scheme, or through solicitors or barristers whose names are entered on panels established and maintained by it under subsection (3).

(2) Subject to the other provisions of this Act, a person shall be entitled to apply for legal aid or advice through any law centre irrespective of his or her place of residence.

(3) The Board may establish and maintain—

(a) a panel (to be known as "the solicitors' panel") containing a list of names of solicitors who are willing to provide legal aid and advice, and

(b) a panel (to be known as "the barristers' panel") containing a list of names of barristers who are willing to provide legal aid and advice, on such terms and conditions as the Board may, with the consent of the Minister and the Minister for Finance, from time to time determine.

(4) Any solicitor or barrister who is prepared to comply with the terms and conditions referred to in subsection (3) shall be entitled to have his or her name included on the appropriate panel unless his or her conduct when providing or selected to provide legal aid or advice or his or her professional conduct generally render him or her unsuitable, in the opinion of the Board, to provide such aid or advice.

(5) Where a solicitor is entered on the solicitors' panel on behalf of a firm of solicitors he or she shall, when providing legal aid or advice, be deemed to do so on behalf of the firm.

(6) Any law centre may provide legal aid or advice to more than one party to a dispute provided that each such party is represented by a separate solicitor and, where appropriate, barrister.

(7) All communications and notices in any proceedings in respect of which legal aid is being granted may be addressed to the law centre responsible for providing the legal aid concerned.

Selection of solicitor or barrister. 31.—(1) The Board shall, upon deciding to grant legal aid or advice to a person, nominate a solicitor of the Board for the purpose of providing such person with such legal aid or advice, or refer the person to the solicitors' panel to select a solicitor therefrom, which solicitor shall, upon selection, be engaged by the Board for the said purpose under section 11.

(2) The Board may, having taken into account the views of the person to whom it has decided to grant legal aid or advice, nominate any barrister whose name is entered on the barristers' panel for the purpose of providing such person with such legal aid or advice as the Board considers should necessarily be provided by a barrister in the circumstances, and the barrister so nominated shall, subject to subsection (3), be engaged by the Board under section 11 for the said purpose on the instructions of the solicitor nominated by the Board in the matter under subsection (1) or engaged by the Board in the matter under section 11.

(3) Where a person to whom the Board has decided to grant legal aid or advice wishes to be provided with the services of—

(a) a solicitor other than one nominated by the Board pursuant to subsection (1), or

(b) a barrister other than one nominated by the Board pursuant to subsection (2), that person may make an application to the Board in that regard and, if the Board considers that the person's wish is reasonable in all the circumstances, it may consent to the application and, as may be appropriate, nominate such other solicitor for the purpose under subsection (1) or engage such other solicitor or barrister for the purpose under section 11.

(4) Where a person to whom the Board has decided to grant legal aid or advice has—

(a) accepted the nomination of a solicitor or selected a solicitor from the solicitors' panel pursuant to subsection (1) or been granted the services of a solicitor pursuant to an application under subsection (3), or

(b) accepted the nomination of a barrister pursuant to subsection (2) or been granted the services of a barrister pursuant to an application under subsection (3), the person may apply to the Board to have the services of that solicitor or barrister dispensed with and the services of another solicitor of the Board or solicitor from the solicitors' panel or, as may be appropriate, barrister from the barristers' panel obtained in the matter and where the Board considers it reasonable in all the circumstances, it may consent to the application.

(5) Where the Board consents to an application under subsection (3) or (4), the additional expense (if any) occasioned by the person or the Board by so doing shall be borne by the applicant, unless the Board considers that it is reasonable in all the circumstances that such expense be borne by the Fund.

(6) A solicitor nominated by the Board or engaged by the Board for the purpose of providing a person with legal aid or advice may, at his or her discretion, nominate another solicitor, being a solicitor who is qualified to provide legal aid or advice, to act as his or her agent in the matter or in any aspect thereof.

Relationship between lawyer and person in receipt of legal aid or advice. 32 .—(1) Save as is otherwise specifically provided for by this Act, the relationship between a solicitor or barrister and an applicant for, or a person in receipt of, legal aid or advice and the rights and privileges arising out of such relationship shall be the same as the relationship between, and the rights and privileges arising out of the relationship between, a solicitor or barrister and his or her client not being an applicant for, or a person in receipt of, legal aid or advice.

(2) Notwithstanding the relationship between, or rights and privileges of, a solicitor or barrister and an applicant for, or person in receipt of, legal aid or advice, a solicitor or barrister providing legal aid or advice shall, if so requested by a person authorised in that behalf by the Board, provide the person with any information, in such form as the person may specify, relating to legal aid or advice provided to or by an applicant or person in receipt of legal aid or advice, which is required by the Board for the purpose of enabling the Board to discharge its functions under this Act.

Costs recoverable by or on behalf of a person in receipt of legal aid or advice. 33 .— (1) In this section "costs" includes all outlays including solicitors' and witnesses' costs and expenses and barristers' fees.

(2) A court or tribunal shall make an order for costs in a matter in which any of the parties is in receipt of legal aid in like manner and to the like effect as the court or tribunal would otherwise make if no party was in receipt of legal aid and all parties had respectively obtained the services of a solicitor or barrister or both, as appropriate, at their own expense.

(3) Subject to subsection (8), an applicant for legal aid or advice shall take all possible steps to ensure that any right he or she possesses to be indemnified either in whole or in part in respect of expenses which would, but for this Act, be required to be incurred by him or her in the matter, will, in respect of expenses incurred by the Board on his or her behalf in the matter and not yet reimbursed to the Board, inure for the benefit of the Fund.

(4) A solicitor of the Board nominated for the purpose or a solicitor engaged by the Board under section 11 to provide legal aid or advice to a person in a matter shall take all necessary steps to recover any costs recoverable by such person whether by order of any court or tribunal or by virtue of any settlement reached to avoid or bring an end to any proceedings or otherwise, and shall pay any costs so recovered into the Fund.

(5) A person in receipt of legal aid or advice under this Act shall not agree with any party not so in receipt to forego any costs or to meet any costs of any such party or to accept any sum in satisfaction of his costs or the costs of the Board in the matter, save with the prior approval of the Board, and the Board may make it a condition of such approval that any or all of its costs shall be paid out of any property or sum recovered by the said person by virtue of the agreement.

(6) The Board shall be entitled to recover the costs incurred by it in providing legal aid or advice and the amount of costs recoverable by the Board under this section shall be such sum as may be determined by the Board having regard to section 34 or, in default of agreement between the person in receipt of the legal aid or advice and the Board, be—

(a) in the case of a person in receipt of legal aid, such sum as may, at the discretion of the court or tribunal concerned, either be—

(i) measured by the court or tribunal in accordance with section 34, or

(ii) determined by the Taxing Master—

(I) in accordance with the rules (if any) of the court or tribunal concerned, and

(II) in the absence of any such rules, as solicitor or client costs,

and

(b) in the case of a person in receipt of legal advice, such sum as may be determined by the Taxing Master as solicitor and client costs.

(7) Subject to subsection (8), any general damages or any money (including costs) or other property recovered by or preserved for a person in receipt of legal aid or advice in a matter, or on his or her behalf, by the Board, whether by order of any court or tribunal or by virtue of any settlement reached to avoid or bring an end to any proceedings or otherwise, shall, in the case of general damages or money be paid by the person or the Board into the Fund and in the case of other property be made by the person or the Board subject to an appropriate charge in favour of the Fund for the purpose of the recovery by the Board of its costs in providing such legal aid or advice.

(8) The Board—

(a) shall waive any right to any money or other property to which it is entitled under this section, to the extent that such money or other property consists of—

(i) a house or portion thereof (including normal household chattels) being the normal place of residence of the recipient of legal aid or advice concerned,

(ii) a periodical or lump sum payment of maintenance,

(iii) the first £2,500 of any moneys payable by way of arrears of maintenance under an agreement in writing or order of any court, or

(iv) the first £2,500 of any moneys payable by way of arrears or lump sum under the Social Welfare Acts, the Health Acts, 1947 to 1994, the Unfair Dismissals Acts, 1977 to 1993, the Minimum Notice and Terms of Employment Acts, 1973 to 1991, the Employment Equality Act, 1977, the Anti-Discrimination (Pay) Act, 1974, or the Redundancy Payments Acts, 1967 to 1991,

and

(b) may, in whole or in part, waive any right to any money or other property to which it is entitled under this section if, in the opinion of the Board, not to do so would be likely to create hardship for the recipient of legal aid or advice concerned.

(9) The Minister may, with the consent of the Minister for Finance, by order vary the amounts specified in subparagraphs (iii) and (iv) of subsection (8) (a).

Measurement of costs incurred by Board. 34.—The Board or the court or tribunal concerned may, when measuring the costs incurred by the Board in connection with the provision of legal aid or advice in any case, take into account all factors relevant to assessing the actual costs, including the following matters—

(a) the time devoted to the case and the salaries, fees and other expenses paid to the staff of the Board and to any solicitor or barrister engaged by the Board to provide legal aid or advice in the matter,

(b) any other administrative expenses including the cost of accommodation, stationery, photocopying and telephone expenses,

(c) any fees or expenses incurred in obtaining reports,

(d) witnesses' expenses, and

(e) any charges payable by way of court fees or otherwise.

(a) by way of a contribution under section 29, and

(b) by way of a payment made or charge created in accordance with the provisions of section 33 (7), the balance arising shall be refunded to him or her.

Costs awarded against a person in receipt of legal aid. 36 .—(1) Costs awarded by a court or tribunal to a person not in receipt of legal aid (referred to subsequently in this section as "the successful litigant") against a person who is so in receipt (referred to subsequently in this section as "the unsuccessful litigant") shall not, save in accordance with subsection (2), be paid out of the Fund.

(2) Where a successful litigant submits a bill of costs to the Board, the Board may make an ex gratia payment towards such costs of such amount as it considers appropriate, if it is satisfied of the following matters, namely that—

(a) the proceedings were instituted by the unsuccessful litigant,

(b) the successful litigant has taken all reasonable steps to recover his or her costs from the unsuccessful litigant in person,

(c) the successful litigant will suffer severe financial hardship unless an ex gratia payment is made,

(d) the ex gratia payment will not exceed the amount that would be allowed if the costs were taxed on a party and party basis, and

(e) the case has been finally determined.

Regulations. 37 .—(1) The Minister may make such regulations as are necessary for the purpose of giving effect to this Act.

(2) Without prejudice to the generality of subsection (1), regulations under this section may—

(a) make provision as to the manner of making applications for legal aid or advice under this Act, the consideration and processing of such applications by the Board, the grant of legal advice and the cesser of the grant thereof by the Board and the issue, amendment and revocation of legal aid certificates by the Board (including the issue of emergency certificates);

(h) make provision as to the refund of costs to persons in receipt of legal aid or advice;

(i) prescribe the conditions under which legal aid and advice shall be available;
