Case law in Finland is available in HTML format.

Further proceedings

Information is available on further proceedings in the following courts:

General information on appeals is available from the Supreme Court and other courts

Information on cases pending is available from both the Supreme Court and other courts

The results of appeals are available from the Supreme Court and other courts

Information about the irrevocability of a decision is available from the Supreme Court and other courts

Information before another court (such as the Constitutional Court) is not available from the Supreme Court or other courts

Information about further proceedings before the European Court of Justice is available from the Supreme Court but not from other courts.

Publication rules

There are binding rules for the publication of case law at the national level and at the level of courts.

Full case law is published by the Supreme Courts and special courts. In other courts, only a selection of the case law is published, depending on the importance of the case, the implementation of new or changes to legislation, and the need to harmonise implementation.
