Article 24(1)(d) - the lists of persons qualified, in accordance with national law, to carry out certified translations, where such lists exist

There is no public list of translators and interpreters. However, translators and interpreters can ask to be listed (as an adviser to the court) in directories held by the courts.

Article 24(1)(e) - an indicative list of types of authorities empowered by national law to make certified copies

In accordance with the first sentence of Article 18(2) of Presidential Decree No 445 of 28/12/2000, copies can be certified by:

- the public official (pubblico ufficiale) who issued the certificate or with whom the original has been deposited or to whom the document must be submitted;
- a notary (notaio);
- a court registrar (cancelliere);
- a municipal secretary (segretario comunale), or another official appointed by the mayor.

Tasks relating to the population register and civil status are a government responsibility, and are carried out by the mayors of municipalities, who are government officials, and by staff appointed by them.

Government officials issue population register certificates (Article 33 of Presidential Decree No 223/1989) and extracts from the civil status records held in the relevant registers (Article 106-108 of Presidential Decree No 396/2000).

Article 24(1)(f) - information relating to the means by which certified translations and certified copies can be identified

Where a document is accompanied by a certified translation into Italian, the translation is certified as a correct translation of the foreign text by the diplomatic or consular authorities, or by an official translator or an interpreter who certifies under oath that it is a correct translation of the foreign text. The diplomatic or consular authority or the translator or interpreter will insert their name and personal details, and will add their signature or use the stamp of the office to which they belong and put their signature next to the stamp; they will also insert a statement of liability with respect to the work they have carried out.

A copy is certified by entering a statement at the end of the copy, certifying that it is a true copy of the original; this is done by an authorised public official, who must also indicate the date and place of issue, the number of pages used, their own full name and their status, and who must add their full signature and the stamp of the office. If the copy of the certificate or document comprises several sheets, the public official must add their signature in the margin of each preceding sheet as well.

Article 24(1)(g) – information about the specific features of certified copies

As mentioned above in relation to Article 24(1)(e), copies of documents are certified by means of a statement, written by an authorised public official, certifying that the copy corresponds exactly to the original document.

A copy certified in this way is said to be 'authentic' (autentica) if the certification gives it the same legal effects as the original.
