Tłumacze pisemni/ustni

W razie potrzeby rozumienia lub bycia zrozumianym podczas rozprawy sądowej prowadzonej w innym państwie członkowskim lub potrzeby sporządzenia uwierzytelnionego tłumaczenia umowy lub innego dokumentu prawnego może zająć konieczność zwrócenia się do tłumacza ustnego lub tłumacza pisemnego specjalizującego się w tekstach prawnych.

Wprowadzenie

W obliczu rosnącej mobilności i migracji na terytorium Unii Europejskiej proporcjonalnie wzrasta też liczba wszelkiego rodzaju stosunków (handlowych, prawnych, akademickich czy osobistych) między obywatelami różnych narodowości, kultur i języków. Prowadzi to do różnorodnych sytuacji, w których konieczne jest skorzystanie z usług tłumacza. Z uwagi na to, że wiele z tych sytuacji wymaga usankcjonowania lub poświadczenia przez odpowiednie organy (zazwyczaj sąd lub inną instytucję prawną), dość często zachodzi potrzeba dokonania urzędowego tłumaczenia dokumentów sporządzonych pierwotnie w innym języku.

Celem tłumaczenia urzędowego jest poświadczenie faktów w postępowaniu sądowym lub administracyjnym lub w sprawie sądowej, uznanie faktów prawnych, które zaistniały w obcym państwie oraz zastosowanie do obywateli ich prawa ojczystego (prawo prywatne międzynarodowe).

Usługi tłumaczenia urzędowego są zorganizowane w poszczególnych państwach członkowskich Unii Europejskiej w różny sposób, a ramy zawodowe są bardzo zróżnicowane (niejednorodne systemy i praktyki). Na przykład w państwach, których systemy prawne wywodzą się z prawa rzymskiego, takich jak Hiszpania czy Grecja, zawód tłumacza przysięgłego podlega różnym zasadom dostępu i jest wykonywany na różnych warunkach, jeżeli chodzi o przepisy ustawowe, opłaty czy nabywanie uprawnień do wykonywania zawodu.

Kim jest tłumacz ustny specjalizujący się w tłumaczeniach prawnych?

W wyniku pracy tłumacza pisemnego powstaje pisemny dokument zawierający tłumaczenie tekstu z jednego języka na drugi. Tłumacz tekstów prawnych musi doskonale znać podstawowe pojęcia i terminologię nie tylko z dziedziny prawa, ale także z tej dziedziny, w której dane przepisy są stosowane.

Tłumaczenie prawne stanowi oś komunikacji w kontekście wielojęzyczności, ponieważ umożliwia jednostkom, podmiotom gospodarczym oraz organom administracji i sądownictwa komunikację ponad barierami językowymi i kulturowymi, w granicach państwa i poza nimi. Tłumaczenie prawne wymaga znajomości specjalistycznej terminologii oraz konwencji językowych stosowanych w danych dokumentach. Dzięki tłumaczowi tekstów prawnych będącemu członkiem zespołu prawnego i pozostającemu w kontakcie z ekspertami z danej dziedziny prawa możliwe będzie pełne zrozumienie każdej sprawy i niezbędnej terminologii prawnej. Znajomość systemu lub systemów prawnych oraz związanych z nimi postępowań daje tłumaczowi możliwość udzielania wsparcia w kwestiach prawnych.

W ramach poszukiwań tłumacza tekstów prawnych zwraca się uwagę na standardy zawodowe dotyczące kompetencji językowych, umiejętności tłumaczenia oraz znajomości systemów, postępowań, terminologii i konwencji językowych mających zastosowanie w poszczególnych przypadkach.

Kim jest tłumacz ustny tekstów prawnych?

Tłumacz ustny świadczy usługi tłumaczenia ustnego, stosując różne metody tłumaczenia z jednego języka na drugi (tłumaczenie symultaniczne, konsekwentne lub szeptane). Tłumacze ustni specjalizujący się w tłumaczeniach prawnych współpracują głównie z prawnikami przy prowadzonych przez nich sprawach, na przykład podczas rozprawy przed sądem, zeznań, przesłuchania, mediacji, arbitrażu, spotkania z klientami itp.

Tłumacz przysięgły

Tłumacze przysięgli są uprawnieni do tłumaczenia dokumentów urzędowych (aktów małżeństwa, świadectw szkolnych, dyplomów uniwersyteckich, pism procesowych, orzeczeń itp.) oraz do tłumaczenia ustnego w sądzie (np. wyjaśnień stron lub zeznań świadków), na posterunku policji (podczas przesłuchania, po zatrzymaniu) lub przed organami administracji (np. podczas kontroli celnych). Tłumacz przysięgły ma prawo do umieszczania na swoich tłumaczeniach urzędowej pieczęci poświadczającej tłumaczenie.

Tłumacze przysięgli powinni co do zasady mieć ukończone studia wyższe z danego języka lub języków oraz wykazywać się różnymi umiejętnościami w zakresie tłumaczenia pisemnego i ustnego, jednak wymagania w tej dziedzinie w poszczególnych państwach członkowskich różnią się między sobą. Większość państw członkowskich UE ma systemy selekcji i mianowania tłumaczy przysięgłych. Na ogół tłumacz przysięgły jest również uprawniony do wykonywania tłumaczeń ustnych w sądzie. Poszczególne państwa stosują różne nazwy urzędowe na określenie osoby wykonującej zawód tłumacza przysięgłego.

Jak znaleźć tłumacza pisemnego lub ustnego?

Obecnie tłumaczy tekstów prawnych można znaleźć w krajowych bazach danych. Nie wszystkie państwa członkowskie dysponują jednak takimi bazami.

Łącze do oficjalnych lub półoficjalnych rejestrów tłumaczy mających odpowiednie uprawnienia znajduje się niekiedy na stronach internetowych ministerstwa sprawiedliwości lub sądów wyższej instancji.

Dyrektywa 2010/64/UE zobowiązuje państwa członkowskie do podjęcia starań mających na celu ustanowienie takiego rejestru na potrzeby spraw karnych w terminie do 27 października 2013 r., czyli do końca okresu przewidzianego na dokonanie transpozycji dyrektywy do prawa krajowego. Na podstawie tej dyrektywy państwa członkowskie są zobowiązane wprowadzić procedurę lub mechanizm służące stwierdzeniu, czy podejrzany lub oskarżony potrzebuje pomocy tłumacza ustnego i pisemnego oraz niezwłocznie zapewnić tym osobom możliwość skorzystania z usług tłumacza ustnego. Należy zapewnić tłumaczenie pisemne dokumentów, które są niezbędne do zagwarantowania realizacji prawa do obrony, a w wyjątkowych przypadkach można zapewnić tłumaczenie ustne lub ustne streszczenie treści takich dokumentów, pod warunkiem, że pozostaje to bez uszczerbku dla rzetelności postępowania. Państwa członkowskie ponoszą koszty tłumaczenia niezależnie od wyniku postępowania.

W celu uzyskania szczegółowych informacji na takie tematy, jak:

Legal translators/interpreters - Belgium

Here you will find information on finding an interpreter to act in court proceedings or a translator, if necessary via an official website.

How to find a translator in Belgium?

Belgium currently has two central official databases, one for court experts and one for translators, interpreters and translator-interpreters.

These were established pursuant to the Law of 10 April 2014.

Their official names are as follows:

The National Register of Court Experts (Registre national des experts judiciaires)

The National Register of Translators, Interpreters and Translator-Interpreters (Registre national des traducteurs, interprètes et traducteurs-interprètes)

The Law entered into force on 1 December 2016.

Since 15 June 2017, these registers have been open to the courts. This means that the registries and the state counsel's office will no longer keep lists of court experts or translators/interpreters.

At a later stage, the police will also have access to these registers.

Eventually, everyone will be able to consult the registers freely on the website of the Federal Public Service for Justice (Service public fédéral Justice).

Legal translators/interpreters - Bulgaria

Bulgaria does not have a translator and interpreter database.

There is currently no electronic database of court translators.

Under § 6(4) of the Final Provisions of the Act amending the Code of Criminal Procedure, Article 403 of the Judicial System Act has been amended to include a new paragraph 2 providing for the Minister for Justice, in agreement with the Supreme Judicial Council, to issue a regulation laying down: the procedures and time-limits for proposals for inclusion and changes to the lists of specialists certified as translators; the conditions to be met; and the conditions and the procedure for establishing their remuneration. Regulation No N-1 of 16 May 2014 on court translators (SG No 43 of 23 May 2014) was issued under that statutory empowerment. Every provincial or administrative court, and the Specialised Criminal Court, has a register listing professionals certified as court translators. Proposals for inclusion in the lists of court translators can be submitted by ministries, agencies, institutions, municipalities, professional and other organisations and academic institutes, as well as by prospective court translators. Proposals for inclusion in the lists are submitted to the president of the relevant provincial or administrative court, or to the president of the Specialised Criminal Court.

Questions of legal recognition and translation of documents are covered by the Rules on legal recognition, certification and translation of documents and other texts, adopted by Council of Ministers Decree No 184 of 1958.

Regulation No 1 of 16 January 2008 on the registration, qualifications and fees of expert witnesses has been repealed by the Supreme Administrative Court. A new regulation has been prepared and a draft published for public consultation on the Ministry of Justice website, in accordance with Article 26(2) of the Legislative Instruments Act. The draft has been sent for approval to the Supreme Judicial Council and the Ministry of Internal Affairs.

What does the Czech experts and interpreters' database offer?

In the Czech experts and interpreters' database you may search for persons listed as experts and interpreters – i.e. persons authorised to carry out expert and interpreting activities. Lists of experts and interpreters kept by individual regional courts are divided into a section for experts and one for interpreters. Each interpreter on the list of experts and interpreters is authorised to provide oral interpretation and written translations in the relevant language under which he or she is listed.

The Czech experts and interpreters' database is owned and maintained by the Ministry of Justice of the Czech Republic. However, the relevant regional courts are responsible for the correctness of the data.

Is access to the Czech experts and interpreters' database free of charge?

Access to the database is free of charge.

How to search for a legal interpreter in the Czech experts and interpreters' database

Using the simple search engine provided, you can search for the contact (or other) details of experts and interpreters online. Interpreters can be searched for by the languages in which they are authorised to interpret, by the regional court area of jurisdiction in which they live or by name and surname.

Legal translators/interpreters - Greece

Greece does not have a website that publishes a list of sworn translators or interpreters. We are currently preparing to digitise our databases and their electronic interfaces.

How to find a sworn translator or interpreter in Greece?

Interpretation and translation before the Greek courts in criminal proceedings are governed by Articles 233-238 of the Greek Code of Criminal Procedure. Interpreters and translators are appointed by the competent court from the relevant table, which is drawn up each year by the Judicial Council of the Misdemeanours Court and finalised by the Council of the Court of Appeal. In cases of extreme urgency, interpreters who are not included in the above tables are appointed.

In civil proceedings, Article 252 of the Code of Civil Procedure provides that if a witness, expert or party does not speak Greek, an interpreter shall be appointed by the court. A similar provision is contained in Article 137 of the Code of Administrative Procedure.

It should also be noted that there is a translation service at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs which, under the current legal framework, is responsible for the official translation of public and private documents.

Foreign public documents from countries that are party to the 1961 Hague Convention –which was ratified in Greece by Law 1497/1984 (Government Gazette, Series I, No 188) – are translated only if they bear an apostille as provided for in said Convention. All other foreign documents must be certified by the Greek consular authority in the country of origin of the document or by the country's consular authority in Greece.

Translation is not provided free of charge. The cost of translation is determined by the Deputy Minister for Foreign Affairs.

In addition, according to the Lawyers Code (Article 36 of Law No 4194/2013 Government Gazette, Series I, No 208), the work of a lawyer includes the translation of documents drafted in a foreign language and the translation of Greek documents into any foreign language. The translation has full effect before any court or other authority, provided it is accompanied by a certified copy of the original document and the lawyer certifies that they have sufficient knowledge of the language it was translated from and into.

Is access to the Greek translators' databases free of charge?

Greece does not have a centralised database of Greek sworn translators/interpreters.

However, there is a database of members of the Panhellenic Association of Translators (members of the International Federation of Translators, FIT) who are professional translators (some of whom are also interpreters). This database allows users to search for an interpreter/translator by language and by region.

Furthermore, information on professional translators, by region of Greece, can be searched in the database of the Panhellenic Association of Professional Translators of the Ionian University (FIT member), whose members specialise in two of the three languages: English, French, German (for information on the language specialisations of Association members, please contact the Association itself).

Legal translators/interpreters - Spain

This section helps you to find an interpreter or legal translator in Spain.

How to find an interpreter or legal translator in Spain

I. Interpreters and translators in the justice system.

In Spain, sworn interpreters and translators in the justice system are regulated as follows:

Article 231.5 of the Organic Law on the Judiciary specifies that 'Authorisation to act as an interpreter in oral hearings or to use sign language shall be granted in accordance with the procedural law applicable.'

Article 440 of the Criminal Procedure Code recognises the right to be assisted by an interpreter, and Article 441 states that 'The interpreter shall be selected from persons qualified as such, if there are any in the locality. Where there are none, a teacher of the appropriate language shall be appointed, and if there is none, any person who speaks the language'.

Article 762.8 of the Criminal Procedure Code states that 'If the accused or witnesses do not speak or understand Spanish, the applicable procedure shall be that laid down in Articles 398, 440 and 441. The interpreter does not need to have an official qualification'.

Article 9 of Law 4/2015 of 27 April 2015 on the rights of victims of crime recognises the right to translation and interpretation.

As a general rule, in civil and criminal cases with legal aid the Ministry of Justice (or the Autonomous Communities with powers in the field of justice) pays the translator or interpreter, while in civil proceedings without legal aid the claimant bears the expenses of the translator or interpreter. Interpreters are also used in certain administrative law proceedings, such as requests for asylum.

II. Sworn translators and interpreters:

To qualify as a sworn translator or interpreter it is necessary to pass the examination organised by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Holders of this qualification are authorised to make official translations

Is access to the database of translators in Spain free of charge?

Legal translators/interpreters - France

How to find a translator in France

The documentation and analysis service at the Court of Cassation publishes the following on its website:

a list in PDF format of experts approved by the Court of Cassation. It also contains links to the websites of some courts of appeal. The list of experts approved by the Court of Cassation is produced annually by the management panel (bureau) of the Court; lists of experts produced by each court of appeal, featuring experts registered under the headings of translation and interpreting. The lists of court experts produced by the courts of appeal are updated by the courts of appeal and sent to the Court of Cassation at varying intervals.

The Court of Cassation does not, strictly speaking, have a database of all translators and interpreters.

Lists containing the names, contact details, dates of birth and specialist fields of experts are available for 36 courts of appeal.

Do you have to pay to search for a translator or interpreter?

No, access to the websites is unrestricted.

Context and historical background of translator directories in France

Historical background

The first official lists of experts for criminal cases were introduced into the French judicial system by an Act of 30 November 1892.

There were also unofficial lists of people with technical knowledge who were most often designated in civil cases.

Act (loi) No 71-498 of 29 June 1971 introduced a single list for each of the courts of appeal in the ordinary court system, for both civil and criminal cases, with experts being listed by their specialist field. The list was updated and amended annually. Registrations were renewable annually but in practice renewed automatically for experts who had not incurred any serious criticism. A national list of experts, produced by the management panel of the Court of Cassation and run along similar lines, was also introduced.

Registration conditions

Registration on the lists of court experts was the subject of in-depth reform under Act No 2004-130 of 11 February 2004 and Order No 2004-1463 of 23 December 2004. Before 1 March each year, applications for registration on the lists of courts of appeal are submitted to the State Counsel (procureur général) at the regional court of the court of appeal. The State Counsel examines applications and then refers them to the Principal State Counsel (procureur général), who submits them to the first president of the court of appeal.

The lists are produced annually during the first half of November by the general assembly of adjudicating judges (assemblée générale des magistrats du siège) at the court of appeal, which takes account of the court's needs in its areas of jurisdiction.

Initial registration on the lists of the courts of appeal is for a probationary period of three years, at the end of which an assessment is made of the person's experience and whether they have the legal knowledge they need to carry out their tasks properly, with a view to possible re-registration by submitting a fresh application. The applicant's file is reconsidered, and an opinion is given by a committee of experts and judges, after which the expert may be re-registered for a period of five years.

Order No 2012-1451 of 24 December 2012 clarified criteria already mentioned in Order No 2004-1463 of 23 December 2004. Applications are to be considered in the light of the qualifications and professional experience of the applicant, which may have been acquired in an EU Member State other than France, and of the interest shown by the applicant in working with the justice system.

Only experts who have either been registered on a court of appeal list for five consecutive years or who can prove that their qualifications are recognised in a Member State of the European Union other than France – acquired notably by carrying out in that State, for at least five years, activities of such a nature as to provide the courts with technical information in the course of their judicial activity – may be registered on the national list.

Registration on the national list is for a seven-year period.

As regards the procedure for registration and re-registration on this list, the public prosecutor at the Court of Cassation receives these applications, which must be sent before 1 March, examines them and seeks the opinion of the first president and the public prosecutor at the court of appeal where the individual concerned is registered. In the first half of December, the management panel of the Court of Cassation then draws up the national list, without any intervention by the public prosecutor's office.

Nomenclature of headings in the lists of experts

Pursuant to Article 1 of Order No 2004-1463 of 23 December 2004, an order (arrêté) of the Minister for Justice dated 10 June 2005 established for the whole of France a harmonised nomenclature for the headings in the lists of court experts. The list is divided into branches (branches, which are economic sectors such as agriculture, health, industry, etc.), headings (rubriques, for professional disciplines such as medicine and surgery), and specialist fields (spécialités, refining the professional disciplines, such as allergology, digestive surgery, etc.). An 'H' branch for interpreting and translation comprises an interpreting heading ('H1') and a translation heading ('H2'), which are subdivided into specialist fields by groups of languages (Romance languages, Germanic languages, Slavic languages, etc.). The specialist fields are defined widely enough to include any spoken or written language. There is also a heading ('H3') for sign language and cued speech.

For this new harmonised nomenclature of expert specialist fields, therefore, translators and interpreters have been kept on the general lists of court experts, while having their own specific heading. Although giving expert opinions in the narrow sense of the term is not their primary role, translators and interpreters, like other court experts, assist the courts on an occasional basis and may, if necessary, be designated as technical specialists to take part in the inquiry itself, under Article 232 of the new Code of Civil Procedure, for example by providing a professional opinion.

For these reasons, it was not considered necessary, at the time of the 2004 reform, to make separate arrangements for interpreters and translators and to register them on separate lists.

Legal translators/interpreters - Croatia

The status of permanent court interpreters (Stalni sudski tumači) is regulated in general by the Courts Act (Zakon o sudovima) (Narodne novine (NN; Official Gazette of the Republic of Croatia) Nos 28/13, 33/15, 82/15, 82/16 and 67/18) and by the Rules on permanent court interpreters (Pravilnik o stalnim sudskim tumačima) (NN Nos 88/08 and 119/08), while their rights and obligations in individual procedures are regulated by special procedural laws (Civil Procedure Act (Zakon o parničnom postupku), Criminal Procedure Act (Zakon o kaznenom postupku)).

In order to be eligible to be a permanent court interpreter, an applicant must meet the general conditions for admission to the civil service and, additionally, the following specific conditions:

In addition to knowledge of the Croatian language, he or she must have full command of a foreign language and, where, in addition to Croatian, the language of an ethnic or national community or minority is an official language in the court's jurisdiction, he or she must also have full command of that language; He or she must have knowledge of the organisation of the judiciary, the state administration and legal terminology;

He or she must have obtained a university degree.

A person may not be appointed as a permanent court interpreter if he or she is prevented from being admitted to the civil service under Article 49(a) of the Civil Servants Act (Zakon o državnim službenicima), nor may a person be appointed who has been convicted by final judgment of an offence which renders him or her unworthy of performing the duties of a permanent court interpreter for as long as the legal consequences of the conviction persist, or who is prohibited from practising the profession at the time when he or she is seeking appointment as a permanent court interpreter.

A national of an EU Member State or a foreign national may also be appointed as a permanent court interpreter if he or she has knowledge of the judiciary, the state administration and legal terminology, and has obtained a university degree, and if, in addition to knowledge of the language of their home country, they have a full command of Croatian or the language of an ethnic or national community or minority.

Associations of permanent court interpreters (Udruge stalnih sudskih tumača)

In Croatia, there are six associations of permanent court interpreters whose training programmes for candidates wishing to become permanent court interpreters have been approved by the Ministry of Justice.

Hrvatska strukovna udruga sudskih tumača (Croatian professional association of court interpreters, HSUST)

The association was established in 2007 and is one of six professional associations in Croatia accredited for training future permanent court interpreters. In addition to training future court interpreters, the association helps court interpreters in the Republic of Croatia and across Europe connect with each other.

The trainers are appointed court interpreters who are also lawyers and professors in the particular language of the candidate.

Udruga stalnih sudskih tumača (Association of permanent court interpreters, USST)

The association was established on 19 February 2010 and is based in Zagreb. It is a not-for-profit professional association that accepts only permanent court interpreters as ordinary members, making it stand out among equivalent and similar associations.

The association's main activities include professional networking and professional development of members; organising conferences, lectures, seminars, congresses, meetings and other professional gatherings on issues in the field; cooperation with other equivalent and similar associations and organisations abroad, as well as with all organisations supporting the work of the association.

On 8 June 2012, USST was admitted as a member of EULITA (European Legal Interpreters and Translators Association), an international and not-for-profit association of court interpreters, and became a full member by unanimous decision on 1 August 2013.

Legal translators/interpreters - Cyprus

Since 1 July 2019 certified translations in Cyprus have been subject to the rules laid down in Law 45(I)/2019 on the registration and regulation of services provided by sworn translators.

Under this Law, any private or public body that requires a certified translation should turn directly to a sworn translator entered in the Register of Sworn Translators of the Council of Sworn Translators.

The law defines «certified translation» as a valid and accurate translation of a written text or document from a foreign language into Greek or Turkish, and vice versa, or from Greek into Turkish and vice versa, which is duly stamped and bears the public seal of the Republic of Cyprus.

Sworn translators translate documents intended for official public use in Cyprus or abroad, such as education certificates, marriage certificates, birth certificates, death certificates, criminal record disclosure certificates, passports, identity cards, bank accounts, title deeds, corporate documents, medical reports and legal documents.

Languages covered: Arabic, Armenian, Bosnian, Bulgarian, Chinese, Croatian, Czech, Danish, Dutch, English, Estonian, French, German, Georgian, Italian, Latvian, Lithuanian, Macedonian, Norwegian, Persian, Polish, Romanian, Russian, Serbian, Slovak, Spanish, Swedish, Turkish and Ukrainian into Greek, and vice versa.

DOCUMENTS SUBMITTED FOR TRANSLATION

All documents submitted for translation must be authentic and duly legalised either by means of an apostille or by means of a foreign affairs ministry seal (diplomatic certification). The documents must be legalised before they are translated. With regard to EU countries, Regulation (EU) 2016/1191 provides that it is up to the party submitting the document whether or not to affix an apostille. The newsletter of the Ministry of Justice and Public Order provides further information on the certification of documents and lists the states that are party to the Hague Apostille Convention.

As regards documents which do not require an apostille but must be legalised by means of a diplomatic seal, the party submitting the document for translation should contact the relevant department of their foreign affairs ministry for additional information.

The court provides for the right of the parties to civil proceedings who are receiving state legal aid in a case or who are exempt from payment of court costs, to acquaint themselves with the materials of the case and participate in the proceedings with the aid of an interpreter if they do not have a command of the language of the proceedings.

The court provides for the right of the parties to administrative proceedings who do not have a command of the language of the proceedings – with the exception of representatives of legal entities – to acquaint themselves with the materials of the case and participate in the proceedings with the aid of an interpreter.

A court may also decide at its own discretion to provide for an interpreter for a legal entity.

In criminal proceedings, persons who have a right of defence, victims and their representatives, witnesses, specialists, experts, auditors and other persons called upon to participate by the official conducting the proceedings, where such persons do not have a command of the official state language, are entitled during procedural actions to use a language they know and to engage an interpreter for assistance free of charge, the interpreter's services being provided for by the official conducting the proceedings. In pre-trial proceedings, investigating judges or the courts provide for the presence of an interpreter at the adjudication of matters over which those investigating judges or courts have jurisdiction.

Legal translators/interpreters - Hungary

Hungary does not have a central, electronic database of legal translators and court interpreters.

How can I find a Hungarian legal translator or interpreter?

Specialised translation or interpretation may be pursued as a form of employment or any other paid work only by qualified specialist translators or interpreters. With the exceptions referred to below, certified translations and certification of translations and of copies of foreign language documents can be done by the Hungarian Office for Translation and Attestation (Országos Fordító és Fordításhitelesítő Iroda Zrt, 'OFFI').

Under the Notaries Act No XLI of 1991, notaries who are entitled to draw up documents in a foreign language may produce certified translations in that language of documents in cases falling within their notarial remit or certify translations of such documents. Notaries certify a translation of an original document by adding an attestation clause to the end of the translation.

Diplomatic missions, including consular departments, may perform translation, foreign-language document copying and certification activities as provided for by law and international treaties.

Qualified specialist translators and specialist revisers may also make certified translations of extracts from the company register and authentic translations into any of the EU's official languages (as chosen by the company) of company documents and data intended to be entered in the company register.

Interpreting services at courts, public prosecutor's offices and law enforcement agencies based in Budapest are provided by OFFI. OFFI must also provide interpretation for courts, public prosecutor's offices and law enforcement agencies outside Budapest that are unable to ensure the provision of interpreting services through the appointment of a qualified interpreter or other suitable person.

Legal translators/interpreters - Malta

Malta now has a database of legal translators and interpreters.

In criminal cases, a list of interpreters/translators is available to members of the judiciary and court personnel. This list is kept and maintained by the Criminal Court Registry. In preparation for the entry into force of the Directive on the right to interpretation and translation in criminal proceedings, the above list has recently been added to the Court Services available online.

When the services of an interpreter or translator are required during criminal proceedings, one is appointed by a magistrate. The existence of the abovementioned list above does not preclude a magistrate from ignoring it entirely and appointing any other person whom they consider suitable to perform interpretation or translation duties. The name of the person thus appointed is subsequently added to the list. For further information, please write to 'The Criminal Court Registrar, Courts of Justice, Valletta, Malta'.

In civil cases, the parties may appoint a translator or interpreter of their choice, and the cost of doing so is borne by the party who requires these services. The court administration has no involvement in this process. However, the civil courts may make use of the list available to the criminal courts, which is available to the public online as stated above.

Malta's list of translators and interpreters is also contained in the Courts' Legal Case Management (LECAM) IT system, which is generally for the sole use of court personnel and members of the legal profession. However, the general public may access the LECAM system in respect of civil cases on computers maintained at the court registries.

Additions to the experts' list are made by court officers authorised to maintain this database. Entries for individual experts are linked to the court case for which they have been appointed to offer their professional services.

Legal translators/interpreters - Netherlands

This page provides information on the registration of sworn interpreters and translators in the Netherlands and extension of that registration.

Sworn Court Interpreters and Translators Act

The Sworn Court Interpreters and Translators Act (Wet beëdigde tolken en vertalers - Wbtv) applies in the Netherlands. It governs the rules and regulations for sworn interpreters, who provide an oral translation of speech made in another language, and for sworn translators, who provide a written translation of text written in another language.

Interpretation and translation are liberal professions, which means that, in principle, regardless of training or background, anyone can set up as an independent interpreter or translator. You do not need to be registered in the Register of Sworn Interpreters and Translators \(Register beëdigde tolken en vertalers \(Rbtv\)\) in order to do this. The Rbtv is a database containing the details of sworn interpreters and translators in the Netherlands; it is managed by the Office of Sworn Interpreters and Translators \(Bureau beëdigde tolken en vertalers\). You must be registered in the Rbtv in order to be able to work as a sworn interpreter or sworn translator.

What information is in the Dutch translators' register?

In accordance with Article 2 of the Sworn Court Interpreters and Translators Act, the Register for Sworn Interpreters and Translators contains the following details for each interpreter or translator registered:

contact details;

whether the person is an interpreter or translator;

the source or target language(s) in which the interpreter or translator works; and the other specific skills that the interpreter or translator deems useful to have recorded in the register.

Who is responsible for the translators' register?

Ultimate responsibility for the register lies with the Minister for Justice and Security; however, competence for deciding on entries into the Register falls to the Office of Sworn Interpreters and Translators.

Is access to the Dutch Translators' Register free of charge?

Yes, access is free of charge.

How to find a legal translator or interpreter in Romania

The  database of authorised Romanian translators and interpreters is owned and maintained by the Romanian Ministry of Justice. It contains information on translators and interpreters authorised by the Romanian Ministry of Justice.

These authorised persons provide translation and interpretation services upon request for:

the Superior Council of Magistracy

the Ministry of Justice

the High Court of Cassation and Justice

the Public Prosecution Service

the National Anticorruption Directorate

the criminal investigation authorities

the courts

notaries public lawyers and bailiffs.

Law No 178/1997 regulates the authorisation and payment of interpreters and translators who provide services to criminal investigation authorities, courts, notaries public, lawyers, the Ministry of Justice and the other institutions listed above.

The translators' database includes information from 2002 onwards.

Is access to the Romanian translators' database free of charge?

The following information is available to the public free of charge:
name of the authorised translator or interpreter, language or languages for which the translator or interpreter is authorised, authorisation number,
telephone number.

The database also contains the following information that is not publicly available:
personal identity number,
postal address.

How to search for an authorised translator in Romania

The database can be searched using the following criteria:

the name of the authorised translator or interpreter;

the name of the relevant court of appeal (each court of appeal bears the name of the municipality in which it is located. As there are 15 courts of appeal in Romania, each with territorial legal competence regarding judicial cases corresponding to specific national administrative areas, this search criterion can be used in practice to identify all translators within the geographical and administrative areas corresponding to the territorial legal competence of a specific court);

language pairs (if a foreign language is displayed, the counterpart of the one displayed will be Romanian);

the authorisation number;

the expiry date of the authorisation (this search can be performed by typing 'Ordin' ('order' in English) – a legal instrument issued by the Ministry of Justice to suspend or revoke the translator's authorisation).

The Swedish database of authorised interpreters and translators is owned and administered by the Swedish Legal, Financial and Administrative Services Agency (Kammarkollegiet).

It contains a list of certified interpreters and translators who are authorised only to interpret or translate from or into Swedish. An individual may be authorised for a number of different languages. An authorised interpreter may also be authorised to work in a particular area of expertise as a court interpreter and/or medical interpreter.

Is access to the Swedish register of interpreters and translators free of charge?

Yes, it costs nothing to access the Swedish database of authorised interpreters and translators.

How do you search for an authorised interpreter or translator in Sweden?

If you are looking for an interpreter, you can search by language, special area of expertise, county (län) or surname. If you are looking for a translator, you can search by language, county (län), surname or translator number.
